Winter Warmers

Inside the charming Qiviuk boutique, delicate shawls, hats, and sweaters await to embrace you in warm elegance. Naturally shed fur from the protected muskox living in the Canadian Arctic is skillfully hand knit along with fine merino wools and silk to make even the loveliest cashmere sweater green with envy. The Canadian company also retails in the New York Plaza Hotel and some of the top resort communities in its home country. qiviuk.com

Divine Decor

Parisian-born Sylvie Guieysse's handcrafted collection of colorful pillows, tapestries, and table runners feature stylized birds, 18th-century Toile de Jouy, and African wax motifs. The Japanese, French, and Central Asian textiles are created in her New York workshop. We love her black vine cotton and linen table runners and her new line of naturally scented sachets. ## Reader's Delight

New York creative consultant firm ECCO Design's new ribbon lamp is a bright solution for those seeking energy-efficient, long lasting, yet utterly chic desk

lamps. This cold cathode fluorescent light comes with a dimmer, and like on your flat screen TV, the color temperature can be adjusted to suit your mood and room. Let the light illuminate the pages of Samantha Nestor's new book Living With Wine, a delicious glimpse at how passionate wine collectors design and enjoy their innovative cellar storage spaces. ## Pampered Pets

Feline-loving designer and entrepreneur Mei Zamus named her company Jake and Micah after her beloved Siamese cats. Zamus creates organic catnip-filled toys sure to keep lucky kitties on their feet and in pampered style—for example, individually designed fortune cookie, tea bag, and sushi toys. Our favorite is the laurel birch catnip-filled mat, perfect for slumbering felines. jakeandmicah.com
